HALT JAP ADVANCE ON BATAN

EXPECT CROWD FOR BIG ARMY DAY PARADE

Committee Says All Mansfield Expected to Watch Line of March Monday.

2,000 TO PARTICIPATE

Celebration Will Be City's Salute to Its Men Now In Service Ranks.

All Mansfield, a city eager to show how it feels about its sons in Uncle Sam's forces, will turn out for next Monday night's Army Day parade, it began to appear today.

Glenn L. Bierly, chairman of the committee arranging for the event, reported today that between 1,800 and 2,000 persons will participate in the parade. He and his fellow committee-members expect that many times 2,000 will line the streets to view the parade and lend their support to the occasion.

The parade, arranged for Army Day—25th anniversary of America's entry into the first world war, has been designated as "A Salute to the Boys in Service." It is to start at 7:30 p. m., the hour when the committee believes most residents of the city can be on hand.

The order of procession announced today by Bierly is as follows:

The parade will be made up of three divisions, each headed by at least one band and color-bearing groups. At the forefront of the first division, leading the entire parade, will be all young men in various branches of the services who happen to be at home on furlough.

Behind them will be members of the three Richland county selective service boards, and the advisory groups of the draft boards.

Next will be a group which Bierly expects to be one of the most impresive units in the entire parade—the fathers and mothers of men in service.

Then will come all war vet-

Launch Plan To Immunize Pupils In All Schools

A county-wide movement to immunize school children up to 10 years of age against diphtheria was under way today as Dr. W. B. Wild, city-county health commissioner, appealed to city and county public and parochial school authorities for cooperation in the drive.

Free toxoid will be furnished by the Ohio Department of Public Health to all children between the ages of nine months and 10 years for immunization against diphtheria, Dr. Wild has been informed by Dr. R. H. Markwith, head of the state department.

The program is in line with President Roosevelt's February proclamation urging that all children within this age limit

RESCINDS ORDER

Commission Recalls Authorization For Ohio Bell Expansion.

COLUMBUS — (U.P.) — The state utilities commission today rescinded an order of July 17, 1941, authorizing the Ohio Bell Telephone company to add Bellaire, Bethesda, Bridgeport and Martins Ferry exchanges to its St. Clairsville exchange.

The Ohio Bell company alleged that because of the national emergency it was unable to obtain necessary equipment to make the change.

QUELL RIOTING

Police Called to Institution After Boys Escape.

LANSING, Mich — (INS) — State police were called to the Boys Vocational school at Lansing today when rioting broke out following the escape during the night and early morning of 15 to 17 boys who are believed to have stolen at least three automobiles.

Five of the boys who escaped were captured by Lansing police less than a mile from the school. The cause of the rioting was not immediately known.

WANTS ROUSING GOODBYES

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Rep. Stephen Young (D.) of Cleveland introduced a bill demanding that "shush-shush" methods of inducting draftees into the army be replaced with a roaring send-off with brass bands.

Senator Truman charges that Standard, as a result of its partnership with Farben, had frustrated the development of synthetic rubber in the United States.

Flood Hazard Looms As Heavy Snow Falls

Rain Would Bring On Peril By High Water, Officials Say; Route 42 Clear After Big Truck Jam.

A new hazard faced Richland county residents today as the possibility loomed that floods would result from yesterday's record eight-inch snowfall which paralyzed traffic in one section of the Mansfield area for more than 10 hours.

County Engineer Howard C. Sword said that unless heavy spring rains hold off until after the snow has melted that county streams might reach flood stages.

Sword warned that the streams were being fed continuously by snow melting on farmland and trickling down through small creek-beds and that floods might occur if the usual rains arrive within the next three or four days.

George B. Ganyard, county extension agent, said that unless there were floods, the heavy snow was ideal for Richland county farmers. Ganyard said that much of the snow was melting gradually and was soaking into the ground and would benefit crops.

More than 200 trucks and 100 passenger automobiles were held up for 10 hours yesterday when traffic jammed on U. S. route 42 between Johnsville and Williamsport in Morrow county.

County roads were also bogged down causing school officials to close schools for the day. Sword said that all county roads were open again late last night.

State highway employes worked from noon until 5 p. m. to clear a five-mile stretch of highway on route 42 to free scores of drivers

WANT RECESS

Senate Leaders Want to Rest Along With House Members.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Senate leaders discussed today the possibility of joining the house in a recess for a week or ten days, but advocates of war labor legislation asked assurance that their proposals would be given consideration as soon as congress resumed work.

Majority Leader Barkley (D., Ky.), told reporters that many senators favored a brief, informal recess, but that he was opposed to giving labor legislation the right of way at the end of any holiday that might be agreed upon.

Senator Connally (D., Tex.) said, however, that he would move to take up his proposal to empower government seizure of war plants and the freezing of labor relations to prevent or halt strikes as soon as pending legislation to aid small business has been disposed of, probably today.

CLOSE THEATERS

Trumbull Authorities Act to Check Scarlet Fever.

WARREN—(U.P.)—Dr. L. A. Connell, Trumbull county health officer, said today that Newton Falls theaters have been closed since Sunday to prevent spread of an outbreak of scarlet fever believed to have started in a trailer camp housing Ravenna ordnance plant workers.

Newton Falls schools were closed for the regular spring vacation. Connell said 21 cases have been reported but the outbreak was under control.

CHINESE FIGHT WAY OUT OF TOUNGOO TRAP

Join Main Army After Battle Without Planes, Artillery; Will Guard Mandalay.

FOE THREATENS FLANK

India Expected To Reject British Dominion Offer Today.

(By United Press)

WITH THE CHINESE ARMY ON THE TOUNGOO FRONT IN BURMA — (Delayed) — The outnumbered Chinese garrison, without artillery or air support, has battled its way through superior Japanese forces and retired to the northeast to join the main Chinese army after holding Toungoo though it was surrounded, for seven days.

The Chinese break-through, achieved yesterday, was an heroic feat and a tactical success in view of Japanese superiority in numbers, weapons and air power.

By joining the main units of China's fifth and sixth armies north of Toungoo, the garrison now will help defend the plains below Mandalay.

For the past week, the Toungoo garrison had been under almost constant artillery and aerial bombardment in addition to continual Japanese infantry attacks.

Since March 24, when the enemy enveloped the city, the seasoned Chinese defenders fought an unequal battle. They had no planes or guns to counter the enemy aerial and artillery power, but were definitely superior in every clash with the Japanese ground attackers.

The Japanese managed to enter the city through its northwest gates and hold the outskirts. A Chinese counter-attack on March 27 drove them out again.

That night, a small Chinese force withdrew into the eastern part of the town behind the Rangoon-Mandalay railway. This maneuver paved the way for the

HALT WORK

800 AFL Employes Strike at Radio Condenser Plant.

CAMDEN, N. J.—(INS)—Halting work on important war contracts, approximately 800 employes of the Radio Condenser company went on strike today in response to an AFL electrical union's order to enforce demands for a blanket 15 per cent pay rise.

The company, largest manufacturer of radio condensers in the world, produces about 75 per cent of all condensers made in this country. Both officials of the plant and union representatives expressed willingness for immediate conferences with a labor department conciliator, who, according to reports, is enroute to Camden from Washington.

Workers established picket lines around the plant when last-minute negotiations fell through.

Jury Frees Kenton Man Accused Of Wife's Murder.

KENTON, O.—(U.P.)—A common pleas court jury of five women and seven men early today acquitted Francis Edward Raver, 23, factory worker, of charges that he murdered his wife, Reva, 23, on Jan. 26.

Raver had pleaded innocent to the charge on grounds of temporary insanity induced when he learned his wife had undergone a sterilization operation without his knowledge and planned to divorce him.

CAPITAL HEARS INTERNATIONALE

Communist Anthem Played at Soviet Relief Concert.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — The strains of Communism's anthem, the "Internationale," filled staid Constitution Hall last night when the Boston Symphony Orchestra played a Russian relief benefit concert in that citidel of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

A capacity crowd, including Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and other notables, crowded the big auditorium. Demonstrative spectators applauded loudly as the music ceased, to be followed by "The Star Spangled Banner."

Senate Democratic leader Alben W. Barkley, Kentucky, appealed for increased aid to Russia during the intermission.

You Can't Buy Tooth Paste Unless You Turn In Old Tube

That buzz of activity you'll note all around town tonight will be Mr. and Mrs. Mansfield Resident making a complete inventory of medicine cabinets and rubbish containers.

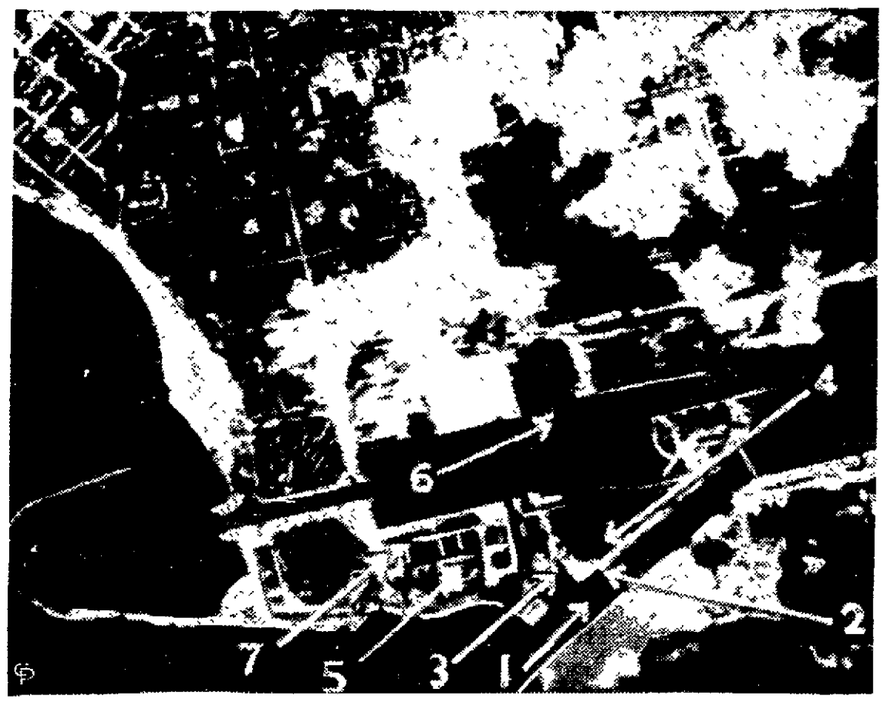
They'll be looking for toothpaste and shaving cream tubes they've thrown away; in order to conform to send-in-a-box top rules laid down by Uncle Sam to conserve precious tin.

A new War Production order, going into effect immediately, requires everyone who buys a tube of toothpaste or shaving cream to turn in an old tube for each new one purchased.

The order holds retailers responsible for enforcing the tube trade-ins by purchasers of shaving cream and tooth paste. The trade-in tubes do not have to be exactly the same type. The merchants will hold the old tubes until further orders from the director of industry operations.

With the rich tin mines of the Straits settlements now in the hands of the Japanese, the once-common metal has assumed new importance in the nation's war economy. WPB officials estimated that the new order would reduce the tube industry's consumption from 5,000 tons a year to 578 tons.

British Claim Nazi Sub Base 'Out For Year'



Germany's mammoth submarine base at St. Nazaire, France, will be unable to service the reich's long-range submarines for "at least a year" according to London, where it was reported that the trick of ramming the harbor's main locks with a destroyer loaded with dynamite was successful This photograph taken by the R. JURORS RETURN 25 INDICTMENTS

Bill Filed Against Former Reformatory Guard Accused In Farm Shooting.

Willis Harris, 46, former Mansfield reformatory guard, was under indictment by the Richland county grand jury today on a charge of shooting James Wilson, 30, a parolee, with intent to wound

The indictment was among 25 returned late yesterday by the grand jury at the conclusion of a two-day session Eighteen of the charges were returned openly and seven were held secret. Seventy-five witnesses were examined.

Most of the defendants named in the indictments will be arraigned at 1 p. m. Thursday before Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston. A few of them who are free under bond or have not been imprisoned will be brought into court later.

Harris is accused of firing a charge from a 38-caliber revolver into Wilson's abdomen last Feb. 9 while Harris lay in bed with a broken back. Wilson, seriously injured, has recovered and left the city. At the time of the shooting Wilson was employed on the farm where Harris lived southeast of Mansfield. Harris was taken to General hospital shortly after the

WATER BLAMED IN ILLNESSES

Health Director Reports Samples Taken From St. Marys Impure.

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Tests of samples taken from the St. Marys water supply system definitely show impurities in the water, which probably are the cause of an intestinal malady that struck an estimated 400 persons, State Health Director R. H. Markwith asserted today.

The water contamination has been narrowed down to one of three wells from which the city pumps water into its system, Markwith explained.

Markwith also asserted that the St. Marys paper mill, which gets its water from a canal, the city water system and its own wells, may be one of the main sources of trouble. Most of the cases were located in this section of the city, he explained.

RECEIPTS SLUMP

Auto Rationing Makes Inroad On Ohio Tax Revenues.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Despite an increase in receipts from all other commodities, the auto rationing program caused state sales tax revenues to slump $131,071 for the week ended March 21, State Treasurer Don H. Ebright reported today.

Collections for the week were $942,395, as against $1,073,466 in the same week of 1941. Auto sales tax revenues dropped from $371,717 to $84,852.

Induction In May Or June Seen For New Registrants

Richland county's 5,022 men of the 20-21 and 35-45 age classifications who registered Feb 16 will be immediately classified and some probably will be inducted into service in May or June, according to word received today from Washington.

There had been some confusion as to whether the Feb. 16 registrants would be integrated with men who registered prior to that date or be called after exhaustion of all previous registrants. However, today's announcement from selective service headquarters stated:

"Local boards throughout the nation were instructed to start classification at once of the sev-

RECALL FARISH

Senate Probers Hear More From Oil Firm President.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The senate defense investigating committee recalled W. S. Farish, president of the Standard Oil company (New Jersey) to the witness stand today to complete his testimony in support of a contention that Standard helped rather than hindered development of synthetic rubber in the United States by its agreements with the German dye trust.

Farish read only a portion of a prepared statement yesterday in reply to charges by Thurman Arnold, chief of anti-trust enforcement, that because of its agreements with I. G. Farbenindustrie of Germany Standard had furnished the Nazis with improved chemical processes and had withheld them from American industry.

Last week an anti-trust prosecution against Standard was concluded with payment of fines by the company and a consent decree under which all German and American chemical patents under Standard control will be licensed, royalty-free, to all U. S. producers for the duration of the war.

ENROLL WOMEN AS FARM HANDS

Scores in Richland County To Help Plant and Harvest, Survey Reveals.

Scores of Richland farm women plan to help their menfolk during the planting and harvest seasons this year to help offset the loss of farm hands to the nation's armed forces and defense industries

County farmers also are receiving offers of help from their city relatives in exchange for a place to spend their vacation this summer.

This information is revealed in a farm labor survey being conducted by the Mansfield office of the Ohio State Employment service, C. W. Handley, manager of the office, said today.

With this volunteer help, the rural labor situation may not be as serious as anticipated, the survey indicates

Handley said his office sent questionnaires to 6,000 farmers in the Mansfield area about two weeks ago and has received replies from approximately 2,000 of them.

About 200, or one-tenth of the farmers who replied said they would need more help during the summer, while 50 of them asked immediate help, Handley said.

More than 125 of the farmers who replied said they would be available to help others at some time during the summer. Handley estimated, however, that only about one-third of that number

U. S. FORCES USE BAYONETS TO BALK FOE

BOMBERS SHOT DOWN

Tokyo Apologizes For Attack on Hospital; Nazis Mass For Eastern Drive.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—The battle of the Philippines reached a new pitch today when the war department reported that Lieut. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright's troops repulsed waves of Japanese attacks in savage hand-to-hand bayonet fighting as Corregidor sustained its 116th air attack without any notable damage being suffered.

The department conceded, however, that the fierce enemy onslaught on Batan had cost the American-Philippine forces some of their advanced positions, but stated that the attack "was brought to a halt before it reached our main line."

The communique also disclosed that the Japanese high command has formally apologized for the ruthless bombing of the base hospital in Batan, claiming that the air-raid was "unintentional."

The attack on Gen. Wainwright's troops was the second heavy one within the last few days and was focused on the right center of his lines. The assault was carried out by enemy troops supported by mortar fire.

Gen. Wainwright's outnumbered forces, however, fought the invading forces in a bayonet battle until defending reinforcements arrived and halted the Nipponese attack after hours of savage battle.

Indicating the engagement was a victory for the American-Filipino fighters, the communique made it plain that the attack had been repulsed before the enemy could consolidate his gains.

At the same time, the communique reported that powerful Corregidor island had fought off the 116th Japanese aerial attack since the outbreak of the war.

In the latest attack, the ninth

CALLS COUNCIL

FDR Sets First Session on Pacific Strategy.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Upon seven men organized as the Pacific war council devolved today the gigantic task of working out the strategy of the United Nations for victory over Japan.

Their efforts were expected to produce the first complete unity of war planning since Japan cracked the ring of Allied defense in the southwestern Pacific by overwhelming Singapore and the Dutch East Indies. President Roosevelt, who announced formation of the council Monday, called the other members to meet with him at the White House.

Summoned to the meeting were Viscount Halifax, the British ambassador; Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, Auxtralian minister of external affairs; Walter Nash, New Zealand minister to the United States; T. V. Soong, Chinese foreign minister; Alexander Loudon, minister from the Netherlands, and Hume Wrong, Canadian legation counselor, representing Canada in the absence of Canadian minister Leighttn MacCarthy.

DAYTON—(U.P.)—Federal agents today arranged for shipment to Pittsburgh of 10,000 tons of scrap metal confiscated on the farm of three Eby brothers near West Carollton.

U. S. Marshal Charles H. Sisson, Columbus, seized the metal yesterday because of the alleged refusal of the owners to sell the scrap to metal dealers at the ceiling price set by the government.

Military Send-Off Committee Wants A Name; Offers Prize

The civic committee responsible for last week's big send-off party for men leaving Mansfield for army service and which will direct similar parties in the future is hunting for a name.

Now known as the Soldiers Citizens committee, it wants a name that will embrace all branches of the nation's armed forces. Its farewell parties are not confined to soldiers, so the committee is looking for a moniker that will cover soldiers, marines, air force and navy men.

The committee wants the name to suggest all service branches and to suggest that the organization is one made up of citizens or a civic group arranging the farewells. The name should consist of no more than five words.

To do this, the committee last night put up a prize of a $5 defense stamp, for the best name suggested. The money was obtained through individual contributions by committee members. Ten tickets to the Madison theater will be given the next 10 best suggestions.

In the event the winning name has been submitted by more than one person, the duplicate names will be placed in a hat and the winner drawn from that. Names and addresses of the sender must be on the paper or card on which the suggested name is submitted.

consecutive bombardment in as many days, anti-aircraft gunners again checked the Japanese by shooting down both of the attacking heavy bombers after they had made a series of assaults throughout the day.

The latest planes shot down brought to 11 the number of Jap bombers destroyed since the current attacks began nine days ago.

Text of the war department's 170th communique follows:

"Philippine theater — Japanese infantry opened a heavy attack on the right center of our line at about 8 p. m. March 31.

"Several waves of assault troops, supported by heavy mortar fire, made repeated attacks on our outposts. Some of our advanced positions were taken after bayonet fighting.

"Our troops were reinforced and after several hours of savage hand to hand combat the enemy attack was brought to a halt before it reached our main line.

"A formal apology was made by the Japanese imperial high command in the Philippines for the aerial bombing of our base hospital in Batan. In a radio broadcast a Japanese army spokesman declared that the bombing was unintentional.

"The enemy made a number of minor air raids on Corregidor and our rear areas in Batan during the daylight hours of March 31. Most of these attacks were made by flights of two planes.

"The 116th air attack on Corregidor was brought to an abrupt end when the two Japanese bombers engaged in the raid were shot down by our anti-aircraft artillery at about 5 p. m. March 31.

"There is nothing to report from other areas."

Although the defenders have parried all recent Nipponese aerial, artillery and infantry blows with the same vigor and success they have displayed since the outbreak of war, the belief prevails in military circles that current fighting is merely the prelude to a major Japanese drive to crush Wainwright's army.

Hitler Masses Men For Spring Drive

(By Associated Press)

Adolf Hitler was reported moving 1,500,000 fresh troops into the eastern front today as signs multiplied that the fuehrer was preparing to open his long-heralded spring offensive for a climactic struggle involving 12,000,000 German and Russian soldiers.

Stockholm dispatches said 13,000 German troop trains had moved eastward in the last three months.

London quarters estimated that about 4,500,000 Germans and 7,000,000 Russians were massing for the great battles already beginning to take shape along the 2,000-mile Soviet front.

Indications that "zero hour" may be near for the German drive were seen in recent communiques reporting Nazi offensive thrusts, after months of stressing the bitter defensive nature of German operations. Thus, today's bulletin from German field headquarters reported that "in an attack of our own," Nazi motorized troops dislodged Russian forces from positions northeast of Orel, 200 miles below Moscow.

Yesterday's communique also noted "our own offensive operations" elsewhere on the front.

London military observers said they expected Hitler to aim his heaviest blows against Marshal Timoshenko's armies on the southern front, in an attempt to break through the 400-mile line between Orel and Taganrog and seize the oil-rich Caucasus.

There remained the difficulty, however, of halting the Soviet juggernaut, and Hitler's field headquarters again acknowledged powerful Russian attacks were continuing in the Ukraine, on the Moscow front and in the northwest around Lenngrad.

All these, the high command said, were "beaten off in stiff fighting."

Soviet dispatches reported new Red army assaults against Kharkov, Russia's "Pittsburgh" in the Ukraine, and said defenders of long-besieged Sevastopol in the Crimea were counterattacking.

Tass, the official Soviet news agency, declared the Sevastopol garrison had struck offensively at the Axis ring about that Black Sea naval base after 150 days of siege in which Germany was estimated to have lost 45,000 men.

Axis dispatches reported Red army armored units had attacked Kharkov from three sides after an artillery pounding of defenses of that Donets basin industrial center. The Berlin radio declared "all these thrusts collapsed."

The Soviet information bureau announced the capture of three more communities, unidentified in its communique, and sinking of a U-boat and an enemy transport in the Barents Sea.

London Sees More Raids on Convoys

LONDON—(INS)—Heavy German naval forces based on Trondheim, Norway, failed to participate in the recent attack made against a United Nations convoy en route to Russia, authoritative British sources said today.

The belief is held in London that the Nazis did not dare risk exposing their southern flank to the full force of the British home fleet which undoubtedly was waiting to engage any main German northward move from Trondheim.

Reiterating that longer days and shorter nights now give the Germans greater scope in making raids on convoys, an official spokesman declared it was "quite certain" the Germans would take every advantage of this condition and that convoys are "in for heavy attacks in the next months."

The spokesman hinted that important developments could be looked for in the Black sea.

He indicated there was a possibility Germany might use the Bulgarian fleet, particularly submarines based on Constanza, in important moves against Russia.

Allied Airmen Rip 18 More Jap Planes

BULLETIN

MELBOURNE, Australia — (AP)—Australian planes destroyed an estimated six Japanese planes on the ground and damaged six others in an attack on Koepang, on the Island of Timor, it was announced officially today.

MELBOURNE — (INS) — Eighteen more of the bombing and fighting planes which Japan finds it desperately hard to replace were destroyed in raids by American and Australian airmen on Koepang, Timor, and Lae, New Guinea, Monday and yesterday, Prime Minister John Curtin announced today.

"At least" this number were blown to bits in the air or on the ground, Curtin said, while in yesterday's enemy attack on Port Darwin one Japanese fighting plane was definitely shot down and a bomber "probably" destroyed.

United Nations fliers this afternoon raided the air port of Salamaua on the Island of New Guinea, scoring hits on the runways and doing other damage.

At Koepang, the Japanese apparently had not learned the lesson they themselves taught the United States at Pearl Harbor and elsewhere. For six of the planes destroyed were in clear view on the landing field instead of being hidden underground or camouflaged in the bush.

In addition, four flying boats at anchor were ripped to pieces by machine-gun fire.

M'Arthur Approves Army Reorganization

MELBOURNE — (INS) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur, supreme commander of United Nations forces in the southwest Pacific, has expressed his full approval of the plan for reorganization of the Australian army, Army Minister Francis M. Forde said today.

Forde said Gen. MacArthur had called upon him and said he was greatly impressed by the officers chosen to lead the two commands which will be established for Australia's land forces.

Gen. MacArthur, Forde disclosed, said he was certain he and Lieut. Gen. Sir Thomas Blamey, commander of all land forces, would be able to work together like twin brothers.

Forde revealed that Gen. MacArthur had made certain suggestions regarding the Australian army and defense of the commonwealth and added that these points are receiving immediate attention.

Gen. MacArthur and other commanders were given a "Green Light" to conduct the military campaign in Australia as they saw fit by Prime Minister John Curtin who promised that there would be no interference by either the Australian government or the parliament.

ISOLATIONISTS REARRESTED IN WEST ON CHARGES OF SEDITION

(By Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES — Isolationists Robert C. Noble, who shouted "to hell with MacArthur," and Ellis O. Jones, who led a mock impeachment of President Roosevelt, were re-arrested last night on federal charges of sedition.

Almost simultaneously, the state filed criminal libel charges against Noble, Jones and seven others, accusing them of having libeled Gen. Douglas MacArthur in a pamphlet distributed by their Friends of Progress isolationist organization. Attorney General Earl Warren filed the state charge in Sacramento.

Noble, Jones and four of their followers were arrested shortly after Pearl Harbor and charged with sedition. They were released a few days later on orders from U. S. Attorney General Francis Biddle, who said every effort should be made to maintain free speech and public safety. Noble as judge and Jones as prosecutor had impeached President Roosevelt at a mock trial.

Noble's "hell with MacArthur" statement was made to a Friends of Progress meeting last week. He confirmed it in testimony before a state assembly committee investigating un-American activities. In other appearances before the committee, Noble said he admired Hitler, contended the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor was justified, and advocated "Europe for Hitler" and "the Orient for the Japanese." He accused Roosevelt of meddling in world affairs.

Noble came into public notice a few years ago as promoter of old age pension plans, then turned to world politics and organized, with Jones, the National Copperheads and Friends of Progress.

He enlisted in the U. S. navy before the World war but was dishonorably discharged in 1918 after running away three times.

The arrests followed months of investigation by the FBI.

Military Send-Off Committee Wants A Name; Offers Prize

Contest entries are confined to persons living in Richland county and they must be in the hands of the committee by April 8. Entries are to be mailed to the Soldiers Citizens committee at the Chamber of Commerce, Farmers bank building.

The name contest plans were drawn by committee members at a meeting at the Chamber of Commerce last night.

The committee also decided to arrange a float depicting its service for display in Mansfield's Army day parade next Monday. The Mansfield Manufacturers club has contributed funds with which to build the float.

Chairman Earl Saltzgaber announced receipt of $35 Colony club members donated to the fund for servicemen's farewell parties. Two other organizations notified the committee of their intentions to stage benefit entertainments in behalf of the organzation.

The committee discussed briefly further plans for another big public send-off party to be held when the next group of service men leaves Mansfield. Date for this departure has not been set.

Japs Threatening Burma West Flank

NEW DELHI, India — (UP) — Strong Japanese forces threatening the western Allied defense flank in Burma are holding Shwedaung, only 10 miles below Prome, and control the entire western bank of the Irrawaddy river while other enemy columns to the east are astride the Prome-Rangoon railway north of Paungde, an India-Burma command communique said today.

The communique, emphasizing the gravity of the British position, admitted that the Japanese held "complete" control of the air.

India Expected to Reject British Plan

BULLETIN

NEW DELHI—(UP)—Sir Stafford Cripps was unofficially reported tonight to have told the British cabinet that a compromise giving Indians a greater voice in direction of home defense might avert rejection of Britain's plan for Indian independence.

NEW DELHI, India — (AP) — India's leaders were expected to turn thumbs down today on Britain's all-or-nothing offer of Dominion status after the war, primarily because of the requirement that Indian wartime defenses be left in British hands.

The decision of the All-India congress party probably will be issued today and the opinion was widely held that the potent ardently nationalist movement would spurn the British terms.

A last-minute glimmer of hope was seen, however, in a joint statement of Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru and Dr. Mukund Ramrao Jayakar, spokesmen of India's non-party leaders, who said "it would be a tragedy if the Cripps mission failed, for it would produce a keen sense of disapointment and frustration and provoke antagonism which in our opinion would be disastrous in this hour of crisis."

Although urging that Britain compromise somewhat on the defense issue, these leaders said Britain's proposal "make it clear that after the war India will not have to struggle for recognition of its constitutional and international status."

Aurobindo Ghose, Indian spiritual leader whose sanctuary at Pondicherry is well known to American visitors, also sent a message to Cripps congratulating him upon his Monday broadcast explaining the proposals.

The answer of the congress party's working committee, it was understood, was being drafted by Mohandas K. Gandhi and Pandit Juwaharlal Nehru, both former congress presidents, for final consideration by the committee.

Discussions yesterday again revolved chiefly around the issue of control of defenses for this great sub-continent and its 390,000,000 inhabitants—already under the menace of Japanese forces in Burma and on islands in the Bay of Bengal.

This part of the British plan has met such opposition that, failing a substantial change, it was believed it might prove a stumbling block for the whole scheme.

A dispatch to the Daily Herald, London Laborite newspaper, said Gandhi had advised rejection of the plan as "unworthy" and a report from New Delhi to the London News Chronicle said that the Sikhs already had turned it down because it would place them in a minority in the Punjab.

The Legion Drum Corps will be next, and then the members of Company F, Ohio State Guard, trimly attired in their new uniforms.

The second division will be led by the Civil Air Patrol, marching as a unit. Next will come the various divisions of the Mansfield Civilian Defense organization. What do I do?

—to protect my car's "lungs" against harmful dust?

The air cleaner on your carburetor is a lot like the family vacuum cleaner. It can't do its job right unless it's cleaned out once in awhile—about every 1,000 or 2,000 miles. Your car "breathes" in about 6,000 cubic feet (a fair-sized house-full) of air an hour to explode the gas. If the air cleaner is clogged up, dirt and grit get in, too, and that's tough on your motor. So keep it clean!

will be available for call at anytime.

Handley said a large number of the farmers reported offers from relatives and friends in the city who would like to spend their vacation in the country and help earn their keep.

He pointed out that women will be useful largely as tractor and truck drivers since few of them would attempt to plow or perform heavy farm duties as in Russia and other European countries.

He urged men and boys, particularly those too young or too old for the army, to register at the Employment Service headquarters for work on farms.

"We can place boys of high school age in part-time jobs and will register older men for work by the day, week, or month," Handley said.

Farmers who need help also were urged to notify the employment office, indicating the type of worker they want, whether he must be experienced with livestock poultry, dairy cattle, or in the cultivation and harvesting of certain crops.

It is also best for farmers to list the type of equipment they have since some men are handy with horses and others prefer to drive tractors, Handley said.

He added that the Employment service welcomes the co-operation of farm organizations and such groups as the Boy Scouts, lodges, and civic clubs in locating farm hands and placing them in jobs during the busy farm season ahead.

From where I sit....

by Joe Marsh

Best storekeeper I ever knew was a fellow named Sam Abernethy. Sam's specialty was to take over some run-down store that somebody else had given up as a failure. Then Sam would turn it into a gold mine.

"But the most important thing of all," he used to say, "is to remember who's Boss!"

"You may think you are Boss of your business . . . but you're not. The Public, your customers, are the real bosses . . . and you've got to run your business the way they want it."

That little statement of Sam's made a big impression on me . . . particularly since it certainly seemed to work so well in Sam's case.

And Sam isn't the only one. I see the beer industry feels the same way . . . certainly, the brewers believe in running their business the way you and I would like to see it run.

Folks like us like to see beer sold in clean, quiet, decent places.

Well . . . the brewers feel the same way about it. They don't want their beer sold in wrong surroundings. They know it doesn't pay. And they know it hurts the good name of beer.

I was reading the other day how the brewers and the beer distributors work together and cooperate with law enforcement authorities. The idea is to make careless beer retailers clean up their places and practices . . . or close up.

It's a good plan . . . and it seems to me it ought to work. I understand it is already in operation in a number of states and is being extended.

It's a mighty fine thing when a great industry has the gumption to do a job like that on its own initiative. And if Sam Abernethy was right, the brewers should be mighty successful . . . because they're running their business the way the public wants to see it run.

The man who signs up to be an air raid warden should mean what he says when he writes on the chart "Available from 8 p. m. to 2 a. m.," First Aid students should be thorough in their study and not depend on a skimmed lesson to carry them through an emergency.

Nobody is asked to do an unreasonable amount of volunteer work. But the volunteers are expected to be business-like about doing what they offer to do. If they are efficient, the civilian defense organizations can be invaluable. If they are not it would be better not to offer help at all. Slackness in individuals can pull down a whole organization.

General MacArthur and the Newsmen

THE ATTITUDE of General Douglas MacArthur toward giving out news is one that might well be given thought by other persons in official and unofficial positions who are regularly or occasionally called upon to provide information for the public, through newspapers.

At a press conference following his arrival in Australia General MacArthur explained to newsmen, "My main purpose is not to suppress news but to get news to you." The support of an informed public opinion, he said, is necessary for successful prosecution of a war under modern conditions.

This idea is not new with General MacArthur. It is recalled that about fifteen years ago an explosion occurred in an army ammunition dump on the outskirts of Baltimore, creating a panic in that part of the city.

The colonel in charge refused to give newspaper reporters any information and they appealed to General MacArthur, then in command of the third corps area with headquarters in Baltimore.

"I was just going out," said the general. "I'll pick you up."

The reporters rode back with the general in his staff car. The colonel (of a type you'll recognize) met them at the gate and, after saluting smartly, said: "General, I've just thrown some reporters out of here." (Has a familiar sound, doesn't it?)

But, listen to the reply of General MacArthur: "Colonel," he said, "let me present these gentlemen to you. They're with the local newspapers. I've always found it better to give them the facts right away. They'll probably end up with the information anyhow, but a little co-operation saves them time and helps the army."

General MacArthur's thinking seems to be equally sound along other lines.

Whisky Supply Adequate

CHEERFUL news for whisky drinkers is that there's no likelihood of serious shortage of supply for at least another two or three years—and, if materials going into non-essential foods are sufficiently diverted, the hard liquor supply may be extended even further.

There is some question, however, as to the advisability of continuing to encourage school children to acquire the habit as this might eventually reduce the quantity available to regular drinkers who feel that they have established priority claims.

There is even some talk of appealing to city authorities to again start enforcing the 1 a. m. closing ordinance for liquor dispensaries (midnight on Saturday), so as to conserve whisky supplies and prevent juvenile patrons from getting more than their fair share.

Typhus Follows Poverty and Filth

THE TERRIBLE spotted typhus, know for some time to be in Poland and working westward, is now coming into Morocco. It follows upon war, poverty and filth as night follows day. Rats and mice carry the louse on which the germs live. So do dirty human bodies.

There is one enemy of typhus—one preventive. It is cleanliness, thorough and absolute. This means soap, hot water, effort. It means that people must wash themselves and their clothing often and well. They must keep their premises clean. Rats, mice and vermin must be kept out.

These are not pleasant subjects. But terrible dangers advance when they are not faced. Plagues breed in slums. Bad old housing invites them. Every room in every dwelling place should be as clean as soap and hot water and elbow grease can make it.

Antarctica's Coal Reserve

THE WAR has reached still another continent, Australia. Now that North and South American countries have joined in declarations of war, only one continent remains untouched: Antarctica.

If the war lasts long enough and is wasteful enough, interest may develop in the Antarctic coal-fields. Laurence Gould, geologist on Admiral Byrd's first expedition to the South Pole, said that the coal beds there were the largest in the world. Unfortunately, so far as the snow and ice made it possible to determine, the coal is not of very good quality. And it is hard to see how it can be made commercially profitable to ship coal 2,600 miles to New Zealand, the nearest civilized country.

A Massachusetts man told police his wife ran away with the family car and that he was anxious to get the car back—as the tires were in good condition.

HEARING FROM THE HOME FOLKS

Stressed Air Power, Called 'Pest'

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—"I explained all this to Joe Daniels but he didn't hoist the idea aboard."

The speaker was the late Rear Admiral William F. Fullam. The time was February 1921, just before Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels passed out of office along with Woodrow Wilson. The occasion was that Admiral Fullam had brought his "copy" into the Washington bureau of the old New York Tribune. The "copy," which was always a masterly editorial in support of a three-plan navy, but particularly stressing air power and submarines, was printed regularly in the Tribune under the non de plume "Quarterdeck."

The use of this nom de plume was rather a joke. It was designed to prevent the admiral's being punished by the naval authorities for writing heresy—and very rank heresy at that—for publication. But everyone in the navy knew who "Quarterdeck" was. His rather long articles, packed with the same arguments time after time over a period of years, and larded with the admiral's picturesque expressions (he dated back to the sailing ship days) were unmistakable to anyone who had ever heard him talk. And that meant every naval officer he could make listen to him.

THE PLAIN truth is that he was regarded as a pest by most of the admirals who were running the navy in the eight years between the close of World War No. 1 and his death. They regarded him as an utter crank. Why they didn't discipline him, as their similarly short-sighted colleagues in the army did General William Mitchell (Admiral Fullam's hero as a naval prophet) was probably because the admiral never went to the length—in writing—that Mitchell did when he used the word "treason."

The writer accompanied Admiral Fullam on several of the trips into the Atlantic, off the Virginia capes, when General Mitchell demonstrated what could be done in attacking ships by bomb-dropping planes. We saw ships sunk by bombs—not just flimsy merchant ships, but war ships. On one of these trips an old German battleship was sunk by a bomb which did not hit her, but fell in the water right alongside!

ONE of the most convincing tests was a sham attack. Ten planes, from a height of 10,000 feet, dropped a pattern of dummy bombs on and around the old battleship Iowa, which was being maneuvered by radio control. It was a regular shotgun pattern, and it was easy to visualize what COULD be done in war, by a hundred planes or more, and from the greatest altitude they could attain.

That is, it was easy for General Mitchell, for Admiral Fullam, for a few laymen including the writer, and for the British naval attache, who went home not long thereafter to argue in vain against spending millions of pounds on Singapore unless ample air power were to be provided for its defense!

In many years of newspaper experience this writer has never seen an expert in any line so thoroughly shocked as was this British captain at the sight of that dropping of a shotgun pattern of dummy bombs. He had served through World War No. 1, mostly in the North Sea, and he saw all the old ideas of naval warfare passing into the discard.

But Admiral Fullam remained a "crank" to the admirals, both in the American and British navies. Admiral Sims, also regarded as a pest by the orthodox, was his only supporter in naval circles on this side of the Atlantic.

And Singapore was made strong against SEA attack!

Man About Manhattan

Private By Choice

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Lost in the morass of the army's millions is a thin, almost frail, boyish looking kid of twenty. His name is Bobby Hopkins. He wouldn't have to serve as a private and shuffle his dogs around the drill fields of Ft. Monmouth, but he chose this rather than go into an officer's training school or apply for assignment in a less exacting spot.

On weekends, and when he has a few days leave, he hitch-hikes out of camp to visit his father. This hitch-hiking is by preference too, for he could easily summon a limousine and travel as he chooses.

Young Private Hopkins doesn't want it that way. Neither does his father, who happens to be President Roosevelt's closest adviser, Harry Hopkins, whose address is: The White House, Washington, D. C.

SID MARION, a Hellzapoppin comedian, has been playing U.S.O. service camp shows in our far-flung outposts. Recently he had the thrill of standing elbow to elbow with one of the real heroes. After a performance in Newfoundland he ranged alongside of a couple of fliers at an officers' bar. One of the fliers mentioned in conversation, that his pal had just pulled a nice little trick, sinking a submarine. Just then the radio began to blare forth the now familiar tale of the aviator whose reticence led him to radio the message, "Saw Sub, sank same." Sid looked at the second flier, the one who was just standing there, not saying anything. The flier became embarrassed. He twisted his toe into the floor under the bar. "Hell," he said, "I was just lucky."

WOODY Herman's opening at the New Yorker was the cue for all the band leaders in town, all the music publishers, and all the visiting Hollywoodians to converge on the Terrace Room. I saw Harry Fink, of Feist, sitting in a corner with a score of song pluggers. I saw Nancy Carroll, who has left the movies for domesticity. I saw the slender, sure-of-himself Adolph Menjou, having a quiet steak. Charles Barnett, Mitchell Ayres and Charlie Spivak were on hand. Their arrangers were there too. I saw Andrew Baruch, and Major de-Seversky, Dave Apollon, and Bea Wain.

The new ice show had the Good-Neighbor motif, and Ronny Roberts, the star male skater, was very very good. Perhaps his extra added pep comes from the fact that four days ago he became the father of twins. Both were boys, and he named them Ronald and Ronny. The girls were cute in their South American costumes, and in their quaint bonnets with blue ribbons on them. Part of the show was devoted to reminiscing with old Irving Berlin tunes, which, on ice, is very rhythmic and smooth and tuneful.

Jesse Jones Fought To Very Last For Authority Over Small Loans

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Behind the scenes, Jesse Jones fought to the bitter end against losing his bottlenecking control over loans to small business.

With the army, navy and War Production Board tearing their hair over Jesse's penny-pinching obstructionism, and with congress getting ready to legislate against him, the president finally notified Jones he would have to relinquish authority over small loans. Jones protested vigorously but Roosevelt directed that the necessary executive order be drafted.

Jones sat in on this drafting conference of war production chiefs, where he made a final effort to stave off the ax.

His first move was to suggest that lawyers be called in to pass on the legality of stripping his authority.

"Jesse," said Sidney Weinberg, special assistant to Donald Nelson, "you've created enough bottlenecks, without having a bunch of lawyers in to create any more. The president has ordered this done and under the War Powers Act he has the authority to do it. No lawyers are needed to pass on the matter."

Jones then shifted his argument to an old favorite of his, the questionable soundness of loans to little business men.

"Suppose these loans that will be made under the proposed new setup don't pay out," he said. "After the war you people will be blamed. We've made all our loans on sound credit rules."

"Yes, but these are war times," retorted Weinberg, "and the controlling principle is not sound credit rules but war production needs. Further, why are you always worrying about money. After the war none of us will have much money, so why worry about it. There are a lot of other things in life far more important."

Jones' Nemesis.

TO WITNESS his signing of the executive order, the president invited Senators Murray, Mont., Mead, N. Y., and Capper, Kan. This was much merited recognition of their long fight for little business men.

One other man also deserved a public pat on the back, but was not invited. Probably Roosevelt didn't know him. Only a few insiders do.

He is Shreves Coles Badger, retiring, liberal Chicago investment banker, who has been quietly after Jones' scalp.

Summoned to Washington in the early days of the old OPM to help little business, Badger ran up against the iron-handed policy of Jesse Jones in every move he made. After months of vain effort, Badger finally compiled a report of 2,000 subcontractors kept out of war production because of inability to get needed loans from Jones.

Armed with this devastating document, Badger began a quiet but tenacious crusade against Jones, soon had the army, navy, WPB and congress lined up against him. This proved one combination the bulky Texan couldn't lick.

When word reached Badger of the executive order taking small loans away from Jesse, he remarked, "Well, I may have worked myself out of a job, but it's a pleasure. Mr. Jones also has been worked out of one."

Cutrate Haircuts.

THE liveliest part of the house debate on the legislative appropriation bill (providing funds for the operation of congress) does not appear in the Congressional Record. It was over the issue of half-price haircuts for congressmen, and was deleted by members who feared repercussions if their constituents learned about the boodle.

Representative Frederick Smith, a plain-talking Ohioan, raised the ticklish haircut issue.

Representative Emmet O'Neal of Kentucky, economy-preaching chairman of a subcommittee on the bill, was explaining various "miscellaneous" items, when he remarked, with a disapproving look at the press gallery.

"It is a common fallacy that haircuts, shaves, soda water and things like that are furnished house members free. That idea is a mistake."

Smith of Ohio immediately jumped up to question this.

"Why not be frank with ourselves and the people about haircuts?" he demanded. "They cost us only 25 cents in the house barber shop, half or less than half the regular price. That's getting something free, isn't it? Why not admit it to the people?"

O'Neal was so startled that his pince-nez glasses almost fell off. He coughed nervously, but did not attempt to refute Smith. Neither did anyone else. Later the Ohioan was besieged by members to delete his remarks. Finally he gave in.

Jap Propaganda.

ACCORDING to a Tokyo broadcast, beamed toward South America, Roosevelt took MacArthur out of the Philippines because he suffered severe defeat. This sort of propaganda was to be expected, but not expected was the source quoted by Tokyo—a story in the Argentine newspaper, La Nacion, written by its Washington correspondent, Fernando Ortiz-Echague.

Actually, Ortiz-Echague said just the opposite, compared Roosevelt and MacArthur to Clemenceau and Foch, predicted for them the same brilliant record as those French leaders.

Merry-Go-Round.

SENATE insiders are predicting that Earl Harrison, able Philadelphia Republican, will be confirmed as commissioner of immigration despite the "personal objections" of Democratic Senator Joe Guffey. Harrison did a widely acclaimed job directing the alien registration last year and agreed to take the immigration post at a personal sacrifice. . . . Robert Guthrie, WPB executive whose resignation exploded a bombshell under profit-minded dollar-a-year men, asked Wendell Willkie to act as his counsel when he appeared before the congressional investigating committee. The GOP leader declined, however, on the ground that he did not want to appear in the light of harassing the administration. . . . In a letter to the War Labor Board, Ted F. Silvey, plain-talking secretary of the Ohio CIO council, charged that in order to bring unions into dispute, certain employers are deliberately stirring up labor disturbances by placing negro workers among whites without first consulting shop stewards. Silvey declared that the CIO is against race discrimination but is opposed to precipitous action by employers. National Maritime Union, a CIO affiliate, has a foreign section, with no control by U. S., to organize seamen serving on U. S. ships under the flag of Panama. The union has a strong communistic flavor.

WHERE THERE'S A WILL THERE'S A WAY

Here is one company that has licked the problem 'round the clock, seven days a week production without "sweating" its workers: The Ford Instrument company, Long Island City, N. Y., (no connection with Henry) makes important devices for the navy under a system by which its employes work five consecutive days of 9¾ hours each and then have one day off. This means the workers get five days off in every 30 days. It ensures them plenty of rest, the company operates every day of the month, and the navy gets urgently needed instruments.

What this company can do, others can do likewise.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—One thing that this war is doing to national government is to revamp its filing system. On the surface, this may seem insignificant, but in the long run it will represent savings of hundreds of millions of dollars.

Under the new system, practically every record that possibly can be will be micro-filmed.

When the war broke out, the only agency which was using this method (to any extent) of reducing valuable records to miniature photographs on a reel of film was National Archives. What they had accomplished in the way of reducing tons of paper records to compact rolls of film set space-cramped and record deluged officials in defense and war agencies thinking.

BESIDES, the British government, during the months of blitz on London, had discovered that micro-filming was the simplest way to safeguard records.

Some idea of the effectiveness of this may be gathered from the recent survey of the Army alone. In various scattered places, the Army has about 180,000,000 inactive, records, requiring more than 12,000 standard-sized four-drawer filing cabinets. This doesn't include all the tons of contemporary records piling up under the present war effort.

By micro-photographing, those same inactive records can be contained in 50 cabinets of the same size. Moving 50 cabinets of non-inflammable material (the micro-film is) out of an area threatened by fire is not an impossible task. Moving 12,000 cabinets would take days.

In addition, the micro-film is not subject to deterioration and any number of new prints can be made from it from time to time, eliminating the likelihood of loss. The film is also immune to mice and paper-eating insects.

WHAT interests wartime government officials most, however, is the prospective saving in office space and in waste paper. Nobody has been able to estimate yet the millions of square feet in government buildings devoted to files and records alone, but several building experts have said that the federal office space problem would be solved tomorrow if we could, by that time, reduce all records to micro-film. As for waste paper, it already is Washington's greatest by product. More of it is shipped out of Washington daily than out of any other city in the land. But the amount probably could be doubled if there were no necessity for keeping paper records.

It is interesting to note that in the survey of record filing made by the Army, it was reported that NOT more than 20 per cent of all records filed are ever used again. Most of these are brought to light because of some litigation where contractual or personal records are required in court. But since it isn't possible to tell whether a file is going to fall in the 20 per cent or the 80, the total 100 must be kept intact.

A Farmer's Diary

Seeding Clover

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THIS is the season to sow clover seed. The topsoil freezes during the night and thaws each morning. There will be abundant rains and numerous skiffs of snow. All this is splendid weather to burst the outer covering of the seed as the moisture within causes the kernel to enlarge. To plant clover over wheat fields does not require digging in the soil. The tiny seeds will be covered by rain, wind and frost.

Today I saw a farmer, just at daylight, moving eastward across a long stretch of upland wheat. He had a strap across his shoulder which helped to support the simple seeder held against his waist in front. It consisted of a heavy muslin bag attached to a thin, light board through which a metal, adjustable opening was made to let the seed pour out and drop into a small revolving fan-turned by a crank in the right hand—which spreads the seed evenly a distance of 16 feet.

The farmer stepped lively in rhythm with the whirling fan. He walked straight toward a stake—10 feet high perhaps, with a white flag on top—at the distant side of the field. A similar pole stood near me, by the fence at this end. I marveled at the unwavering directness of the path he made. Each round of seed blended well into the one before it.

As he came near the border, where I stood, I could hear the movement of the two small gears and the clanking of the fan. In the early morning light, I saw the wide shower of seed expelled and sifted into the growing wheat.

The farmer, a tall spare man of sixty, with leathery cheeks ruddy from exercise in the frosty air, greeted me and said, most friendly, "This is a wonderful morning to seed clover. There's no wind. That's why I'm out so early. In another hour I'll have it finished. When this farm was new ground, clover grew well and nobody ever heard of inoculation. Now, to get a stand, I have to lime the soil and put them germs on the dampened seed.

"I used to sow these fields by hand, then tried a fiddle seeder—even bought one of them wheelbarrow things, but that was hard work—now I'm using this and I reckon it does as good as any I've tried."

He adjusted the stake, poured two pansful of seed from a white sack by the fence and started east again. The whir of the small machine grew less as he walked, and his height diminished in the distance . . . one lone man working so well in so large a field! Song sparrows trilled and meadow larks rose from the dark green wheat, singing as they flew. The sky was gently glowing red and gold where the sun would soon appear.

TODAY IN HISTORY

William Harvey, founder of physiology, was born this day in 1578. Harvey demonstrated that the heart, as a pump, forces the blood out into the body through the arteries and that the same blood again returns to the heart through the veins. Up until Harvey's discovery no one suspected that human blood made a complete circuit through the body and many strange theories were propounded to explain the action of the heart.

WOMEN OPINE SLACKS NO FAD IN WAR TIME

Buyers Hint Skirts May Give Way to Trousers For the Duration.

(By United Press)

NEW YORK—The ladies have shelved vanity for Victory.

They've gone pants-wise and are pulling them on, one leg at a time, for action Not the gay, cruise variety, either, but dark, serviceable trousers, geared for heavy duty and grease spots.

Most of the large department stores here already have noted a huge increase in the sale of slacks Some have doubled their expected sales.

"We're getting orders from all parts of the country," a buyer of women's sportswear reported.

"And they all ask for the same thing. Something dark, practical and durable."

As a matter of fact, one department store buyer hinted skirts may eventually give way to trousers for the duration, except for dress occasions. With the anticipated premium on woolens, silk and hosiery, it is small wonder the gals have found trousers more than a Marlene Dietrich whim.

Every day women are taking over jobs heretofore done by men. They find the freedom of trousers unbeatable, even if the lines are less flattering to the figure

Several high schools already have voted slacks in for class wear. Others are following the lead and once the ball is rolling, it's hard to stop.

A New Jersey high school started it all when its Board of Education approved slacks for class wear.

It happened that Miss Annette James, physical education instructor, had been coming to school in slacks. That was all right until she decided to wear her fire-engine red numbers. That started a cause celebre, resulting in the subsquent vote of approval from the school board.

Cornelius J. Westervelt, president, said that "slacks are not only practical for women . . . but more modest."

Sporadic outbursts of male disapproval have been noted, as in the case of Edward Yazijian, 19-year-old New York high school senior, who appeared in class in his mother's skirt in protest to be-trousered girls.

Out in Racine, Wis., a group of high school boys wore skirts to classes as a protest to girls' slacks until the chill winds sent them scurying for their trousers. Now they don't care "what the babes wear."

BRUCE-CARSON VOWS READ IN PARSONAGE

Quiet Ceremony Performed for Couple on March 28 In Parsonage of Mayflower Congregational Church By Rev. Elwyn Owen.

of the Mayflower Congregational church Mrs. Mary Bruce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Scott, of this city, became the bride of V. L. Carson, 175 Buckingham street. Rev. Elwyn Owen performed the service at 7:30 p. m. before an improvised altar of palms, ferns and lighted tapers.

For her wedding the former Mrs. Bruce wore a navy blue ensemble with navy blue and white accessories and a shoulder corsage of yellow roses and lillies-of-the-valley. Her only jewelry was a pearl necklace, a gift of the bridegroom. Mrs. William Graze, sister of the bride, served as the matron-of-honor. She wore a navy blue frock with navy and white accessories. Mr. Graze served as the best man.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Scott, brother and sister-in-law of the bride, at 181 Sycamore street. Mrs. Scott, the bride's mother, appeared at the reception in a green wool street length frock with green and white accessories. Luncheon was served at a long table decorated with blue and yellow appointments and lighted tapers and centered with a three tiered wedding cake topped with blue wedding bells.

Mrs. Carson was graduated from Cambridge high school and is now engaged in practical nursing. Mr. Carson was graduated from Mansfield Senior high school and is employed at the Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company. The couple is now residing at the Buckingham street address.

Guest Privileges Available To City's Newcomers

Mansfielders will be interested to hear of the hospitality being offered by the national clubhouse of the American Association of University Women at Washington, D. C.

"The Washington branch, as its chief defense activity, will extend hospitality to newcomers who have arrived in Washington to work in defense agencies and to men in training camps in the vicinity," says a bulletin sent to all branches of the organization.

Many Mansfield men and women are in the Capitol city and anyone, whether a member or not, may seek guest privileges by contacting local members of the A. A. U. W. and securing a guest card through them.

Because of crowded conditions in Washington and the indaequacy of recreation facilities the Washington branch believes that there is a special job for it to do in providing recreation and social contacts for some of the thousands of young women—and men as well—who are there in federal defense agencies, as well as for men in the service.

A. A. U. W. members are urged to send to Mrs. Clyde H. Hadley, chairman of the branch Defense Hospitality Committee, 1634 I street, N. W., the names and addresses of men and women who would appreciate a friendly welcome and the hospitality which the branch will offer.

The Defense Hospitality Committee is making plans for entertainment which will appeal particularly to young people.

Treatment For Oily Hair

By MME. QUI VIVE

Of all beauty questers before the wailing wall the girl with oily hair bawls the loudest. She'd stop strangers on the street and sob out her sad story if she thought they'd listen to her. Oily hair tops the list of beauty grievances. Who wants to go through life with a brain tuft that looks as if it were larded? It's a tough life, maties, and no mistake. But why not get busy and put the old mop in form? It can be done.

While the main cause is overactivity of the sebaceous glands, and that, it is believed, is caused by too much fat in the diet, especially pastries, a contributing cause is the half-hearted shampoo. Many girls and women who wash their own heads never get the hair clean. They may get rid of a certain of oil and dust, but they don't remove the shampoo medium Locks are never so gummy and slick as they are when the shafts are coated with soap scum.

If there is the slightest sign of a gray film on brush or comb, rinsing has not been thorough Beauty operators come up against such conditions frequently. They have a dickens of a time getting the tresslocks back to normal Two or three careless shampoos and the evil is wrought.

All soaps are not suitable for washing the hair. If your top crest is oily, change your shampoo medium, try some other brand Be sure to melt it and let it stand several days so the top liquid will be clear. Add hot water to it when you use it. You might as well make enough for six or seven shampoos Place a bar of soap—castile is good—in a quart mason jar, fill the jar with hot water. When the hair is excessively oily, it is a good plan to add a scant half teaspoonful of borax to soften the water.

Begin with a rousing rinsing with a bath spray. Three latherings, as many rinsings. Use gallons and gallons of running water, have it as hot as you can bear it You can't rinse away soap suds with cold or luke warm water

When you have done the job properly every hair will be apart from its neighbor, will glisten

The hair can be shampooed once a week; no harm will result. If dandruff is present that should be the rule. In seven days anybody's pate can pick up a lot of dust. There will be no complaints about an oily state.

Keep combs and brushes scrupulously clean.

"The Authority on Authorities"

MAKING A FOOL OF HIM

Some plays will work against a superlatively fine player, but would have no chance whatever against one of only fair ability. They depend upon the fact that the advanced expert makes deductions of some kind from everything he sees, whereas the general run of players base their actions upon what they take in at first glance, or upon first hearing Consequently, it is possible sometimes to play in such a way as to cause the skillful card-reader to size up the situation in just the way you want him to.

	♠ Q J 10 6 ♥ K 4 ♦ A Q J 10 9 ♣ 4 3

No better example could be asked of a relatively inexperienced player, with fine natural ability, taking advantage of the skill of one of the world's greatest cardsmen. After keeping her clubs concealed in the bidding, Mrs. Olive Benward, in a social game in Hollis, L. I, was rewarded by seeing West lead his fourth-best card of the suit.

After East put on his J, she followed one of the few lessons she has had a chance to learn, and did some thinking, which showed it must be a singleton If she took this with the K and led back the 9, West would surely think East had the Q-J doubleton originally In this event, he must not put on his 10 and set up the whole suit for South, but must duck and let the singleton Q win. This would leave him the 10-7 to stop the run of South's remaining A-8-2. So, thinking he was thwarting an effort to lure two honors together onto a trick, he played his 6, and was flabbergasted when the 9 won. East discarding a spade.

Mrs Benward then dropped the 10 with the A and Q, completed that suit and five diamonds, enabling her to take 11 tricks. If any other play had been made, hearts and the spade A would have set the contract

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

Rarely have I seen so rapid and complete shift of demeanor and facial expression as that which Professor Walter Scott Diswell evinced toward me, when I annouced my identity

His eyes lightened with such friendliness that I wondered if my imagination had been responsible for my dubbing them ophidian when he first confronted me. And his old face was beaming as he unfastened the lower half of the old Colonial door and pulled it wide open.

"Of course, of course," he said "Margaret Spencer, Jack Bickett's cousin You must pardon an old man's shocking memory, my dear. How long is it since I have seen you? And do come in!"

Changes In Diswell.

He put out his hand to shake mine, and two other proofs of the change in him ranged themselves in my mind by the side of his forgetfulness. In the old days he had never used the term "my dear," and now his hand was cold to clamminess, instead of warm, alive and friendly, as I recalled it.

"Who is the man with you, my dear?" he asked, and although I know that the familiar address is a meaningless commonplace in these modern times, I felt a distinct yet wholly unreasoning annoyance at his using it.

"The driver of my car," I answered, and he immediately countered with another question

"Do you wish him to come into the house, or will he wait outside?"

"Outside, of course," I said, and turned my head toward Gus

"Please wait for me near the house, Gus," I directed. "I may want to send you over to the car."

"Okay," Gus said inperturbably, and Professor Diswell took his eyes from my face and directed them to the sullen countenance of the man who had accosted us so rudely.

Brain's Keenness Waning

"Harris!" he said sharply.

The man loked at him, and as if he had been reminded of some dereliction by something in his employer's eyes, touched his cap with what seemed to me a theatrical gesture, not a part of his ordinary custom.

"Yes sir," he said, and I had the vague impression of a mocking, inwardly sneering humility. Again I was saddened by the thought that the keen brain of the old professor must have deteriorated with the years Walter Scott Diswell of the old days had a lively and just sense of his own importance; never permitted the slightest impertinence, open or veiled, from anyone.

"Show this man the gardens, and entertain him until his mistress comes out."

And the, incredibly, with another touch of his cap the man answered smartly, "Aye, aye, sir!" and advanced toward Gus

I felt as if I were attending a comic opera, but a glance at Gus showed me that he saw nothing humorous in the situation

"I'm tired," he said abruptly, "and I don't care for gardens or need any entertainment. If you don't mind, I'll just sit down here and wait for Missis Graham"

Lets Gus Have His Way

For the flashing fraction of a second I fancied I again saw the ophidian look in the old professor's eyes Then they were warm and friendly again, and he spoke almost indulgently.

"As you like, my man," he said, as he closed the door. Then, he seated me impressively in the most comfortable chair in the room, and looked at me quizzically.

"You're not masquerading, are you, my dear?" he asked "You say you are Margaret Spencer, but your man called you—"

Mrs Graham," I repeated "That is now my name."

I remembered that in the old days he had embarrassed me by his assumption that Jack and I were something more to each other than friends or distant cousins, but he evidently had forgotten all about that angle of our association, for his voice held nothing but casualness and he commented:

"Oh, yes, I understand. You are married"

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, April 2

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

THE LUNAR and mutual aspects bearing on the affairs of this day give emphasis to social, romantic, artistic and domestic engagements and to those occupations and business establishments concerned with these. All such should forge on with expansive and gratifying purpose, with high goals to be attained with confidence and gratification. But with all the joy and satisfaction there may be opposition from elders or old friends, with sharp words or deep wounds to be guarded against. Business relations with young folks should enjoy stability and sound growth.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year devoted to social, domestic, romantic, and cultural activities, with much progress, happiness and stability given to all such engagements or business enterprises. These should be executed with much confidence and enthusiasm, despite the opposition or lack of cooperation of elders or old friends. It is admonished that harsh, caustic or impulsive words be averted lest regrets follow.

A child born on this day should be exceptionally versatile and talented in artistic, musical, literary or other professional pursuits in which it should attain standing and good fortune.

GEN. JOHNSON:

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON — It seems to me that there is almost nothing within reason that our more than 130,000,000 people can't do if they are organized to act as a team and given leadership to show them the way to do it.

They are so intelligent, enthusiastic and eager that the mental side of the job is half done before we start. The president is clearly right in saying there should be "more parades." At this stage of the job —or far earlier —it must have an inspirational background.

Gen. Johnson.

He is doubtless thinking, a little wistfully perhaps, of his own glorious first "one hundred days" when he came to office to find a discouraged, dis-spirited people so frequently defrauded in frustration and delay over so many years, that millions of them had given up hope that "anything could be done about it" and were grimly and hopelessly waiting in a sort of stupor, like a man who has surrendered to some grisly, tragic, inescapable fate.

He is remembering, I think, the national thrill that answered his bold slogan, "There is nothing to fear but fear itself," and the galvanic action that followed his succession of bold steps against disaster.

There were parades then—some of the greatest ever held in this country. We were acting as one great unit marshalled as a single army and we wanted to give some expression to every man's desire to have some part in the great battle.

He went on the air one night and asked for a voluntary agreement of each employer separately to covenant with him to shorten hours, raise wages, abolish child labor and to join in collective bargaining with labor. There was an almost 97½ per cent favorable response and we made the greatest recovery in the shortest time in our economic history.

There was inspired leadership, universal confidence in that leadership and a simple organization for action. Do we have it now? We have not.

I am very sure, from my mail and popular press and other comment, that there is not, as I once believed, any complacency in either the people or the congress or any failure to recognize the extent and nearness of our danger.

But I am equally sure that the great mass of men are bewildered, lacking in confidence and feeling helpless to aid, because there is no organization for them to join and, in the main, they are not told what they may be privileged to do as their own contribution under the old NRA slogan:

"We do our part."

They are alert enough. There has hardly been a single important reform or improvement in our bungling war effort that has not come from popular pressure exerted through congress, rather than through executive leadership.

Delegation of power, unity of command, setting aside of outworn methods and outworn men, some attempt to control price inflation and many other obvious changes—all have been made reluctantly. They have been made almost entirely as a result of editorial criticism slowly filtering through to the people, and at length resulting in indignant demand.

Organization of the population to act as one, leadership to show it the way, inspiration to spark the effort—these have been lacking and, as a result, we are prepared to be effective at only a fraction of our potential strength.

Now the kind of criticism that has been our only spur to action is being answered by hifalutin name-calling "Sixth Columnists" and the like. Censorship threatens more and more to tighten.

To question the wisdom of executive decision is said to aid and comfort the enemy and shake confidence in the government. It is a hell of a kind of a government which can maintain confidence only by silencing discussion of its actions.

ARGENTINA CUT OFF FROM U. S. SPECIAL HELP

Aid to Chile Also Modified as Nations Fail to Break With Axis.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — The United States has shut Argentina off from the special economic, military and naval aid granted Latin American countries, until such time as she takes her place in the hemisphere front against the Axis.

The decision, an authoritative source disclosed yesterday, was in line with a new policy of giving preferential treatment to American Republics which have gone to war or severed relations with the Axis.

The nine nations that have declared war and the nine nations that have cut relations have exposed themselves to Axis attack, the authority explained. Hence, he added, they must have all the economic aid, and military and naval material the United States can safely provide them.

At the present time, the official said, Argentina still maintains relations with the Axis and is failing to contribute in any effective way to the defense and security of the western hemisphere. Until and unless Argentina pulls her share of the hemispheric defense load, it will be impossible to send military or naval supplies to the Buenos Aires government.

Chile, the only other Latin American nation that has not yet broken with the Axis, will get modified treatment in regard to military and naval supplies, it was stated. This is because of Chile's long coastline and because her navy is smaller than that of Argentina.

After the January conference of American foreign ministers in Rio De Janeiro, the United States took the position that those Latin American nations that had declared war or ruptured relations were in increased peril, the expert said. This made it urgent that those countries exposing themselves to danger would receive what material this country could supply.

Declaring that every government has full right to determine its own foreign policy, he pointed out the revised policy could in no way be interpreted as a reprisal against Argentina.

The United States, he declared is delinerating a foreign policy that anyone would agree is legitimate and logical from any standpoint.

Up and Down the Street

The heavy snowfall that demoralized traffic yesterday and halted transportation for hours in some sections near Mansfield kept Police Chief T. M. Bell and two Mansfield companions, Atty. James V. Will and Peter Zivkof, stationed in one spot for about five hours just beyond Johnsville. The trio left at 7 a. m. for Columbus but didn't arrive there until late afternoon due to being halted by a line of traffic that extended between Johnsville and Williamsport.

Members of the Soldiers-Citizens committee thought they had a real financial problem on their hands for a time last night until Walter L. Beckley, a member, found the solution right next door to their meeting. The committee was wondering how to raise money to place a float in the Army day parade next Monday when Beckley excused himself and left. He returned a few minutes later to explain that officers of the Manufacturers' club, meeting next door in the Farmers Bank building, had agreed to finance the float.

The calendar may say spring is here, but Barney Ford won't believe it after all the snow he's seen since last Sunday. While on a motor trip to Maryland over the week-end, Ford was caught in the Sunday storm that blocked roads with snow in the Washington, D. C., and Maryland area. He was delayed getting started home but figured he would run out of the storm area as he came toward Ohio. He arrived here, however, in the middle of the Monday night storm and then got up yesterday to find the roads blocked here. The streets in some Maryland cities had 29 inches of snow in them, he said.

Mansfielders will be reassured of whether or not spring is really here if they visit the Garden Center at the Public Library. An exhibit of wild flowers has been arranged by members of the Audubon Garden club for the month of April. There is a realistic woodland scene at one end of the room which includes wild flowers, trailing vines and small shrubs. Lending color to the room are the branches of yellow forsythia. Another reminder of spring is the vase filled with pussy willows. Window sills, too, are decorated with several varieties of small plants.

HOUSE GROUP LINKS BILL TO BOOST IN PAY

Deductions From Army Wage Would Be Matched By U. S. Under Measure.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Paving the way for possible induction into the armed service of millions of men with dependents, Rep. May (D) Ky., today said that the house military affairs committee, of which he is chairman, will soon begin consideration of the so-called compulsory allotment bill.

This measure, which will permit deduction from a soldier's pay of allotments for his dependents, will be considered in connection with the senate-approved bill boosting the pay of privates from $21 to $42 a month with other sharp increases in the other lower ranks.

Although the pay boost bill, which passed the senate unanimously, was not sponsored by the war department, may endorse it heartily and predicted speedy house approval.

"But with it should go the compulsory allotment bill," the Kentuckian declared. "As well as providing properly for the men in the service, we've got to be sure that dependents they have left behind are cared for."

This measure, introduced some time ago by Rep. Edmiston (D) W. Va., provides that up to $15 a month may be deducted by the government from a soldier's pay and given to his dependent. Whatever amount is taken from the soldier will be matched, or in the case of a man with several dependents, more than matched, by the government.

May said that hearings on the legislation will start as soon as he returns from a trip home on April 14. He said the two bills would be considered together and indicated that they may be brought to the floor as one omnibus measure.

Overwhelming passage of the pay-raising legislation was expected. One member, Rep. O'Connor (D) Mont., has announced that he will seek to jack the starting pay up to $50 a month instead of $42 as provided in the senate measure.

FACES SUSPECT IN KIDNAPING

Woman Found Wandering on Hillside Reports She Was Abducted, Attacked.

(By Associated Press)

CINCINNATI — An Illinois matron today was expected to confront a 27-year-old Hamilton resident suspected of being one of two men who kidnapped her in Hammond, Ind., Monday night and left her bound and gagged on a lonely hillside here yesterday.

Mrs. Mary Jacobson, 33, of Calumet City, Ill., spent last night at Bethesda hospital, where her report that one of the kidnappers attacked her was confirmed. She was suffering from exposure.

The suspect was arrested a few hours after Mrs. Jacobson was found wandering barefooted and muddy near Columbia park, her hands bound behind her back by a necktie and a loosened silk-stocking gag across her mouth.

City Detectives Arthur Meredith and Richard Crampton said they arrested the suspect as he was replacing his car's 1942 Indiana license plates with 1942 Ohio tags. They said the Indiana tags were reported stolen at Lawrenceburg, Ind.

The detectives said they also found a revolver, several draft registration cards and a parole card on him.

Mrs. Jacobson said she was forced to ride more than 300 miles. Shortly before noon yesterday one of the men forced her to climb a steep hillside, attacked her and left her bound and gagged. She freed her legs which were knotted together with one of her stockings.

FORMER MANSFIELD FLIER GETS DISTINGUISHED FLYING CROSS

Latest honor to be bestowed upon a Richland county son in the armed service of the United States is the Distinguished Flying cross, awarded a former Mansfield flier for extraordinary courage, displayed while battling the Japs over the Philippines.

He is Capt. Elmer L. Parsel, 36-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Parsel of south of Plymouth, former flying instructor at municipal airport here.

A pilot in the U. S. air corps since 1937 he was cited for skill in piloting a giant U. S. flying fortress in a raid on Japanese transports and supply bases in Lingayen gulf on the northern tip of the island of Luzon.

He is reported now to be with U. S. air forces based in India.

Capt. Parsel was born and raised in Richland county. He graduated from Plymouth high school in 1924 and started flying a year later.

Following a barnstorming tour he was employed by the Richland Flying club, a group of Mansfield fliers, as instructor in 1934. He remained at municipal airport for two years.

It was during his stay in Mansfield that he joined the air corps reserves. He entered active service in 1937 taking a refresher course at Randolph and Kelly fields, Texas, known as the "West Point" of the air.

Attaches at the port recalled today that they last saw the Captain in September, two months before he was ordered to service in the Pacific area.

Capt. Parsel flew here from Utah with his wife, a Georgia girl, the first licensed woman pilot in the Peach state. He left his ship, a small monoplane, heere. It is hangared at Gages airport, west of the city.

Induction In May Or June Seen For New Registrants

eral million men who enrolled on Feb. 16 and to prepare to fill the Army's June call for men, and possibly the May call, with these registrants and registrants from the first age group (men who registered on Oct. 16, 1940, and July 1, 1941)."

Mansfield's three boards have been busy for the past week preparing official order numbers for the Feb. 16 registrants from master lists received from Washington.

If any local board finds it does not have a sufficient number of men from the first age group available in Class 1-A to fill its May call, it was authorized to call enough men from the second age group (Feb. 16 registrants) to fill its quota and was told to continue to classify men in the second age group to be sure that it has enough by June 1 to fill a normal call.

TORPEDO HITS —BRINGS LIFE

Child Born Prematurely As Missile Strikes Merchant Ship.

NEW YORK—(AP)—An Axis torpedo found its mark in another helpless merchantman in Atlantic coastal waters Sunday morning and with a thunderous explosion brought—life. Whether it caused any deaths is not yet known, but from a cabin, as it struck, came the thin wail of an infant, born prematurely at the moment of impact.

When he learned that this would be more than just another routine rescue job, Rear Admiral Adolphus Andrews, commander of the Eastern Sea frontier, dispatched every available rescue craft and plane. Yesterday came word that both mother and baby had been picked up from a lifeboat, and that both were "doing as well as can be expected."

PONTIAC, Mich. —(AP) —Two elderly farmers, neighbors near the town of Oxford, north of here, were slain by a ruthless killer in their homes last night—one while he was alone and the other in the company of his aged mother-in-law.

Sheriff Spencer C. Howarth of Oakland county said today a young man who once worked as a hired hand for Barber was being sought. A grudge may have motivated the shootings, he said.

Ulster Officials Consider Ban On A.E.F. Marriages

LONDON—(INS)—Northern Ireland authorities are expected to ban the marriages of Ulster girls and members of the AEF, the Daily Mail said today.

The newspaper reported that many American soldiers had already become engaged, but none are likely to be permitted to marry until U. S. authorities in Washington reach a decision on policies.

The question arose following a flare-up in Australia over a similar situation, when certain members of the clergy protested marriages of Americans and Australian girls. The Daily Mail said Ulster wanted to prevent a similar rumpus if possible.

UTAH STUDENTS GET MINE WORK

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah—(UP)—When the University of Utah graduates its mining school class there are no soft-palmed sissies that never have been down in the "digging's."

The fact that you can see students in hard-rock hats, sweat-soaked shirts and dirty overalls is the proof.

The mining school maintains its own practice mine.

Other schools have similar projects. Utah's mine is outstanding for the reason that it's within a half hour of the campus. Every part of an operating mine is incorporated in it.

Students get actual work at surveying, timbering, ventilation and mining.

Mt. Vernon high school athletes are baseball team holdouts until they get their football and basketball letters. Gridiron monograms were held up because 30 game jerseys were stolen, and only half a dozen returned. Cage letters are withheld because players openly boast they didn't keep training.

Ashland high school spring football practice is delayed until three pairs of stolen football shoes are returned.

Elyria high school reserve cagers aren't getting their letters because five boys broke rules, one forging the name of Athletic Director Roy Clymer to a tournament entry blank.

The stolen property difficulty couldn't happen here as long as Pop Elias keeps his eagle eye on athletic equipment.

I wouldn't expect the smaller schools to hire an equipment man as good as Pop, but they might practice the most important part of Massillon's famed athletic system—honor.

It's part of the Massillon school spirit, keeping the school's name free from petty scandals. And the boys have a school they're proud to fight for.

* * *

Coach Tommy Thomas has solved the baseball problem at Mt. Vernon by telling the athletes: "Go ahead and hold out. That'll give someone else a chance to play."

* * *

I'm not sure, but I think I'm in a quandary. A quandary is the one thing a guy can be in when he isn't sure. Noah Webster says it's a state of perplexity.

I asked Bowler Bertha Malaska the other day if she were a sister of Golfer Vin Malaska.

"No," says she, "he's my niece."

So I'm puzzled. I don't know now whether she's his uncle, or he's her aunt.

I don't believe the story they're telling about the Mansfield girl preparing to bowl in the women's city tournament tonight, saying she would bowl her all-events first, and if she did all right there, she'd go ahead with the singles, doubles and team events.

That's been told too often. But Al Vogel claims it's for the true, that one of the Mansfield Moose, rolling in the lodge's state tourney at Columbus this winter, was all talked into going back for his all-events, after his bowling was done.

* * *

I'm in a dither, all suspense,
I haven't rolled my all-events.
And that ain't all, cause I ain't gonna,
And if I could, I wouldn't wanna.

* * *

Final dissolution of the Ohio State baseball league leaves four Mansfield Braves free agents.

Harry Siegbert, in the army, can't do much about it, but Manager Alex Clowson, Third Baseman Dick Morse, and Outfielder Bill Reinka are free to sign wherever they can for the coming season.

And how, my friends do you like the new pan on the top shelf of this column today?

So many persons have said so often: "Why don't you have a good picture taken for that column?" that I finally broke down and had a flock of good pictures taken. Of course I had to give most of them back.

So what if this one does look like Gary Cooper? It's a good picture, isn't it?

And a happy first day of April to you, my friends.

* * *

And especially a happy first day of April to Harry Mehock. He was going to have final track tryout today to pick his Tyger team for its meet with Newark. With snowshoes they'll try out?

Waterloo Victories Forfeited

Townsend Announces Verdict on Age Case.

By JOHN CARR

COLUMBUS—(INS)— All Waterloo high school football and basketball victories, with the exception of the county tournament, in which Paul Roach participated during 1941-42 were declared forfeited today by the Ohio high school athletic board.

The complete decisions reached at the board's Ravenna meeting Friday were finally released by Commissioner H. R. Townsend.

Paul Roach was discovered to be 20 years old after Waterloo defeated Jeffersonville high school in the district tournament. Roach violated the maximum age limit and was declared ineligible when Jeffersonville protested the game. At the suggestion of both schools, Townsend re-scheduled the game which Jeffersonville won by a close decision, eliminating the famed wonders from the tournament.

* * *

As a result of his case, the board ruled that in the future, all games in which an ineligible player participates are "to be forfeited regardless of the circumstances."

* * *

At the same time, the board declared that "if the boy is allowed to play through negligence or collusion, the school will be suspended."

Another ruling that followed from the Roach case was.

"If a boy is found to be ineligible during the progress of a tournament after the deadline is set for protests, the boy is to be eliminated and the school allowed to proceed, unless it becomes apparent that the school knew that the boy was ineligible or was guilty of gross carelessness.

"In that event, the school is to be suspended and the last school defeated by it is to be permitted to take its place in the tournament."

The board also voted to regard the Dayton, Findlay, Dennison and Youngstown Class A regionals separately in determining the tournament bonus and expenses, and agreed that this year's bonus would not exceed $85, last year's amount, in any district where a surplus existed.

* * *

The same dates as this year were adopted for all of the high school athletic meets and tournaments in 1943, with the exception that each comes one day earlier due to calendar changes.

* * *

Both Class A and Class B 1943 basketball tournaments will be conducted under the regional plan with the proposal that Townsend report his study of the suggestion for dividing high schools in three classes when the board meets next at Cedar Point, on June 19.

Townsend listed as the season for the tournament change the fact that the state fairgrounds coliseum has been taken over by the government for the duration of the war.

The association's share of the tournament's recipes will be a maximum of $3,500, the average cut of the state association for the past five years.

On the subject of feeding high school athletes, the board ruled as follows:

"Hereafter the furnishing of meals and lodging by high schools, the coaches, outside organizations, etc., is to be regarded as a violation of our undue influence rules and will result in the boys being declared ineligible in accordance with it's provision.

* * *

"It was felt," said Townsend, "that such an arrangement was not for the best interest of high school athletics and must be discontinued."

TURN SEMI-PRO

TIFFIN—(AP)—The Tiffin team in the disbanded Ohio State baseball league may become a semi-pro organization, President Charles Lecrone announced.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK—(Wide World)—The Yale committee apparently is still busy trying to find a satisfactory football coach who is looking for a new haven. . . . Latest report is that Jess Neely of Rice, who has been visiting around his old South Carolina hangouts, slipped away for a conference with the Yales. . . . The New York commission's decision on the Louis-Simon short count is about as easy to understand as the double talk local scribes accuse General Phelan of using. . . . Seems when Eddie Joseph counted 10 it it was all over but the shouting. . . . Out at French Lick Springs, Ind., they've discovered the solution of the caddy problem. Frank "Pop" Coombs, who took up bagtoting at the age of 79, is 85 now and is training for the midwest amateur next month.

SHORT SPORT STORY.

Coach Ray Ride of Case is out with the first football "hard luck" tale of 1942. . . . Bob Callaghan, varsity end, played all through last season without doing any damage to an old shoulder injury. The other day he hurt it in a bridge game and will be out for good. . . . Seems another card player leaned on Bob's shoulder in rising from his chair and something slipped out of place.

SPORTPOURRI.

The Senators hardly had written in Bobo Newsom's name on their roster before the baseball scribes started trading him off to other clubs. . . . One story is that he'll go to the Browns, another is that the Dodgers will get him. . . . At least, they're sure Clark Griffith has been trying to pry an infielder loose from Brooklyn. . . . Bill Terry and Branch Rickey had a confab at Jacksonville, Fla., Monday, reviving the story that the Cards will get Johnny Mize back from the Giants and then peddle him to the Yanks at reduced rates. . . . Jimmy Carollo, the heavyweight who had Golden Gloves fans excited, will pass up the National A. A. U. boxing championships at Boston and will turn pro after a few more fights hereabouts.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR.

Art Edson, Oklahoma City Times: "Stan Musial, St. Louis Cardinal outfielder, has been tabbed 'rookie of the year' by tabloving baseball writers. Musial shouldn't be too impressed, for last year's rookie of the year, Lou Novikoff, turned out to be a howling success—at Milwaukee."

Bodis Fooled On March 31

Hot-Shot Kegler Drops Out of ABC Tourney.

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Today is All Fool's day—but to the largest matinee crowd of the current 42nd annual American Bowling Congress championships it is just 24 hours late.

* * *

For those people saw what was thought to be impossible. They saw Joe Bodis, 16-year-average leader and one of the nation's outstanding "money" bowlers, carry a huge 717 tally over from five-man competition in his quest for the all-events leadership and add a modest 569 count in the singles.

When the Clevelander, who anchored Herb's Indians to the team title in 1924, moved over to start his singles, the fans settled back to watch him really mow down a lot of pins. The result—a 127 opener with only one strike, followed by a 142 middle effort and then Joe, one of the most popular of Ohio bowlers, proceeded to withdraw.

It marked one of the first times in modern tournament history a "hot-shot" has so done (Cone Hermann of St. Louis duplicated this feat about a decade ago) and the 269 Bodis thus received credit for in singles competition probably stands as the lowest mark ever registered by a kegler of his caliber.

Of minor importance was the day's two changes in the all-events which saw Louis Farkas of Toledo take over fifth place with 1903 and John Elzeer of Ashtabula, O., slip into a tie for ninth with 1893.

* * *

Farkas' total rocketed him from 17th to second place among the two-year average leaders, trailing Ned Day of Chicago by almost three pins with 210-13.

HEATH CLOUTS TWO HOMERS IN VICTORY

ALEXANDRIA, La. —(AP)— The Cleveland Indians picked Veterans Al Milnar and Mel Harder to continue the club's mastery over the New York Giants today but much of the team's interest was centered on Outfielder Jeff Heath. He clouted home runs in the sixth and ninth innings yesterday to keep abreast the National leaguers single handed until Manager Lou Boudreau and Pitcher Clint Brown combined for a tenth inning run and a 3 to 2 victory.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—(AP)—Ordinarily Manager Billy Southworth of the light hitting St. Louis Cardinals would be elated over the 21 base hits that rattled off Cardinal bats yesterday, but the outburst came in an intrasquad game after the club's contest with the Boston Red Sox was cancelled because of weather conditions.

CHAPTER XI

"Sure you will. I heard Uncle Rhodes say your place out there was worth a lot of money."

"How did you know about it?"

"Oh, I don't know. Everybody knows everything about everybody's business in this town."

"Well, I don't."

"You're a peculiar kind of a kid, anyhow, Parris."

"How, Drake? I wish you'd tell me."

"I don't know, just peculiar. I like you all right, though. You know that." This was unusual from Drake.

"Soon's I get my money I think I'll buy an interest in something or other and work hard, and in a couple of years get married."

Parris was stunned for a moment. Getting married was something he never had thought about. He looked respectfully at Drake.

"Sure enough, Drake?"

"Yep. Got the girl picked out, too."

"Who? Cassie Tower?"

"Lord, no. Her old man won't let you get in a mile of her. I'll tell you, but keep this to yourself—"

"Of course."

"Louise Gordon!"

"Oh."

"What's the matter. Don't you like her?"

"Why, of course, I guess I do. I don't know her any more. Ever since I dropped out of school I don't know many people."

"That's so, I guess. You do kind of live to yourself, don't you?"

"It isn't because I want to."

"You're a fool sometimes, kid. Don't miss all the good times. You go around with me, and I'll show you something. I want to try everything before I get married and settle down. Say, how about Cassie Tower? How did you happen to mention her a while ago?"

"I just happened to think of her."

"You go there all the time, don't you, to see her old man?"

"I never see her any more, though—just once in a while."

"That's the prettiest girl around here. Gee, wouldn't I like to take her out some night."

"I thought you said you were in love with Louise."

"Oh—I guess I'll marry Louise. That's different." Drake's tone changed, and somehow forbade further inquiry in that direction.

"Why don't you go for old Cass yourself? I think she used to like you a whole lot."

"I don't know."

"You're a funny kid, Parris. Didn't you ever have a girl friend?"

Parris flushed. Renee . . .

Drake's dancing eyes turned serious. "What's the matter with you? You're all white around the mouth, Sick?"

Parris shook his head. "No. I'm all right, I guess. I've got to go on home, though."

Parris tried to grin, tried to be offhand and easy. "So long, Drake."

"S'long, kid." He turned and went quickly back along the street, whistling very loud.

* * *

A thick scurry of gray-blue clouds was coming up, and a strong wind poured over the rim of the western rise toward the prairies.

A recollection shot through him like a physical pain. Renee, shabby and little, and something else that squeezed his chest at the thought of her.

He turned around and walked backward—a fine drive of sleet had begun and it stung his face like fire . . . she was somewhere—right now. She was talking, or helping her mother, or laughing—would she be laughing, maybe? Could she be somewhere laughing while he was thinking so hard about her, and remembering, and feeling so terrible?

He tried hard to separate the many mental pictures of her—to see her as she stood in the moonlight that night of his birthday supper, and said: "I'd like to be your girl. I guess you're my sweetheart, too." She was such a baby. That was when he was 14. She was—he stopped, startled by a new thought. Why! He was 17 now, and—Renee was 16! That means she was a big girl—growing up, tall, maybe, like Cassandra. He knew she thought about him just as he thought about her . . . "Let's be sweethearts forever, Renee, you and me . . . all right . . . cross your heart? . . . .

No—no—ne; she wouldn't forget, she couldn't!

Renee! What was he to do about it? He'd have to find her someday. And then — Drake's startling phrase crossed his mind. And then—why then, he might get married. Would he ever find her? He was sure Drake could help him when the time came. Drake was adventurous and practical.

As he edged up the long slippery terrace steps he thought of Drake's disquieting remark: "You and I are mighty near in the same fix."

This solid house and these secure acres of ground—they could pass away and belong to someone else. Drake had so casually said: "When the place is sold." It would be his when his grandmother died. Maybe he'd just keep it and try to run it as she did. But then he wouldn't be able to be a doctor, and he had to be a doctor. She wanted him to be, and of course, he would do as she wished.

"Gee!" he muttered. "I wonder what's going to become of me."

2—Card of Thanks

WITH REGARD TO A CARD OF THANKS

Very often a Card of Thanks in The News-Journal meets a need which can hardly be solved in any other way. Not only is it a gracious expression of gratitude to those who have sent floral tributes, but also courteously acknowledges the service and kindness of the many to whom a personal note of thanks cannot well be mailed, or whose names or addresses are not known.

A "Card of Thanks" can now be arranged by telephone: Dial 4251-6, ask for Miss Lane or Miss Stone, either will be glad to render whatever service and advice you need.

REPORTS SHOW HIGH EARNINGS FOR PAST YEAR

But Stock Buyers Fail To Be Impressed; Number of Issues Edge Up.

NEW YORK—A fair number of industrial and utility leaders ere bid up fractionally in today's stock market but other pivotals remained anchored at or near the four-year lows registered yesterday.

Inclined to do a little better after a spotty opening were American Telephone, Consolidated Edison, General Electric, DuPont, Union Carbide, Eastman and Standard Oil (NJ). U. S. Steel slipped to a new low. Chrysler and Boeing also yielded a little ground in the early proceedings.

Of the day's budget of company annual reports a good majority revealed larger earnings than in the previous year, but except in isolated instances they stimulated no particular buying interest in shares. War news likewise provided no real stimulus to market activity.

Investors found confirmation of the idea that 1941 was a good year for the general run of corporation, despite higher taxes, in the New York federal reserve bank's monthly survey.

The exhibit disclosed that corporate profits, based on 899 commercial and industrial concerns, were 17 per cent above 1940 in the face of the increased federal levies, and heavier wage and material costs.

All types of companies, except tobacco, gold and silver mining and bakery products, had larger earnings than in the preceding year, it was shown.

NEW GUATEMALA LILY FRAGRANT

CHICAGO —(UP)— The existence of a new flower, delicately fragrant and stately as the Easter lily, is reported by Julian A. Steyermark, assistant curator of the Field Museum's herbarium.

He discovered the plant in the jungles of Guatemala while conducting the museum's 1939 expedition to South America. Bulbs were brought back and planted at Chicago's Garfield park. The plant soon produced a magnificent cluster of leaves and after 18 months flowers bloomed.

White and fragrant, they have curved petals which measure a foot in length. Steyermark terms the plant one of the showiest and stateliest of the lily group yet discovered.

'HONEST' THIEF

PITTSBURGH—(UP)—A local physician has discovered that there is such a person as an "honest" tire thief.

"Dear Doctor — Enclosed find $40. I have taken the tires off your car. You can buy them easier than I can.—A Friend."

All Serene After Isolationists Vie With Defense Meet

CLEVELAND — (INS) — All was serenity today at Public Auditorium but for a while last night the forces of civilian defense and isolationism vied for attention, with the civilian defense program winning out as far as crowd appeal was concerned.

While James M. Landis, civilian defense director, admonished a throng of 10,000 to "think, eat and sleep war," Mrs. Agnes Waters of Washington, D. C., denounced the defense meeting as "damnable" before 160 persons gathered in another part of the auditorium for a meeting of the United Mothers of America.

Calling George Sylvester Viereck, recently convicted for failing to register as the agent of an enemy nation, "a great American patriot whose only crime appeared to be that he tried to keep us out of war," Mrs. Waters told the small group:

"You are not like the people that go to those damnable civilian defense meetings that scheme for their own death."

Landis, meanwhile, was warning the defense meeting that "we can no longer be leisurely in training our wardens, auxiliary firemen and policemen, our nurses' aids."

FLOOD HAZARD LOOMING HERE

trapped there since early in the morning.

Highway workers said the jam occurred when slush and icy knobs on the pavement threw three trucks together in the middle of the highway, blocking traffic both ways. Because so many motorists and truck drivers were jammed on each side of the accident, highway workers said they were unable to get snow removal machinery near the place needed until after noon.

Bus companies had to suspend service through Mt. Gilead for more than eight hours. Greyhound officials said that traffic to Columbus was running via Delaware and Mt. Vernon and that two buses, one northbound and one southbound, had been tied up for several hours in the middle of the traffic jam at Williamsport.

State highway officials rerouted traffic from Mt. Gilead to Galion and then on back to U. S. route 42 at Mansfield. Only minor difficulty was encountered at other points between Cleveland and Columbus.

Wrecking tow-cars from garages along the route were called into action to help pull out the several trucks mired in the soft earth along the road.

Residents along the highway from Johnsville to Mt. Gilead had numerous unexpected guests for breakfast and lunch and diners and service stations did a land office business in serving meals.
